CHECKLIST OF EDITIONS OF GREEK PAPYRI AND OSTRACA

The following bibliography grew out of the efforts of Oates to assemble a working collection of papyrological material in the Papyrology and Palaeography Room in the Rare Book and Manuscript Department of the Duke University Library. Many, if not most, editions of papyri appear in series which are catalogued by libraries as serials. Such a practice—reasonable in the librarians' terms—serves to conceal much papyrological material in any large research library, burying the standard papyrological system of reference under a serial classification or even deeper in a subseries. (One must admit that many an edition of papyri presents a bibliographical nightmare.) Thus most research libraries even without a specific papyrological collection possess many more editions than is at first evident. The following list attempts to provide the necessary information for the location of such material, in the hope that it will be useful both to those wishing to gather together papyrological materials for research and to those interested merely in looking at or checking isolated citations of papyrological evidence.

Another, and equally important, purpose of this list is to establish a standard list of papyrological abbreviations. Such a standard list may be an ideal incapable of fulfillment, and it may seem a presumptuous undertaking on the part of a few persons to impose their standards on everyone else. Nonetheless, standardization is a highly desirable goal, and the decision to attempt it was established at a conference held at Marburg on the occasion of the XIIIth International Congress of Papyrology on August 6, 1971. Present at the meeting were Professors Eric G. Turner (London), President of the Association Internationale de Papyrologues, Jean Bingen (Brussels), Secretary-Treasurer of the international organization and editor of Chronique d'Égypte, Alan E. Samuel (Toronto), then Secretary of the American Society of Papyrologists and editor of the Bulletin of the American Society of Papyrologists, Willis, then President of the American Society of Papyrologists, and Oates. Oates had at that time already prepared a checklist of editions, and it was agreed that he should proceed to modify that list with a view to producing what would become a standard list of abbreviations and references. Shortly thereafter Bagnall joined in the project. Willis, too, subsequently became an active participant.

The principles that have governed our choices do not aim at a rigid consistency. Brevity and clarity have been the chief goals. Usages long sanctioned, particularly by Wilcken, have been maintained. Our preference has been to use abbreviations based on the location of the collection (P.Mich.), on the site where found (P.Oxy.) or on the name of the person whose papers constitute an archive (P.Petaus) wherever possible. We have arranged our list in four categories: editions of papyrological texts (e.g. P.Teb.), editions of ostraca (e.g. O.Mich.), corpora of texts of related nature (e.g. C.Ord.Ptol.), and series (e.g. Pap.Lugd.Bat.). We have made no systematic attempt to include all publications of literary papyri since they are conveniently located through R. A. Pack, The Greek and Latin Literary Texts from Greco-Roman Egypt (2nd ed., Ann Arbor 1965). In general, we have not listed documentary material which should find its way to publication in SB, although important and continuing publications (P.Panop. and P.Stras.) have been noted. We have provided some cross-references to variant abbreviations but have not attempted to scour the sources for all such. We have also noted reprinted editions as far as they are known to us.

The references established here have been adopted by the American Society of Papyrologists as official for their publications, the Bulletin of the American Society of Papyrologists and the monograph series, American Studies in Papyrology and by the journal Greek, Roman and Byzantine Studies. In addition, the journal Phoenix follows the practices of the Bulletin of the American Society of Papyrologists in matters of papyrological citation. We hope that adoption of the list will spread further; we also hope that the list will alert papyrologists to the confusing and anomalous practices of the past and lead to greater consistency and clarity in the future. Needless to say, we have consulted many preexisting lists and have attempted to incorporate their virtues in ours. Abbreviations of series and journals follow the practice of the American Journal of Archaeology, as set forth in volume 74 (1970) 1-8.

The responsibility for the final ordering and checking of this bibliography has been ours, but the greater part of the work was done by Oates' students at various times. John B. Dillon, Jr. did the basic groundwork; Ann Britton and Whitney Scofield Bagnall both helped it along, and Louise P. Smith brought it to nearly final form. To all of them we owe great thanks for devotion to an often frustrating task. The staff of the Duke University Library has been unfailingly cooperative in the pursuit of obscure references. We may particularly mention Gertrude Merritt and Elvin Stroud, Assistant Librarians for Technical Services and for Circulation respectively, Donn Michael Ferris, Librarian of the Divinity School Library, and John L. Sharpe III, Curator of Rare Books and Manuscripts. To them and countless other staff members our deepest thanks. Professors Alan E. Samuel and Deborah H. Samuel have made numerous helpful suggestions on matters of information and style.

I. Papyri<sup>1</sup>

Actenstücke = Actenstücke aus der königlichen Bank zu Theben in den Museen zu Berlin, London, Paris, ed. U. Wilcken. Berlin 1887.

1. There are also Greek texts in Wadi Sarga, Coptic and Greek Texts, ed. W. E. Crum and H. I. Bell with an introduction by R. Campbell Thompson. Copenhagen 1922 (Coptica, Vol. III). The Greek texts are listed on page xv; they are almost all ostraca, but No. 9 is vellum and No. 12 papyrus. These last two should be referred to as P.Sarga and the remainder of the Greek texts as O.Sarga. At the site of Deir el Bala'izah five miles from the Wadi Sarga an important group of Coptic papyri were found and among them a few Greek texts. These were edited by Paul E. Kahle in Bala'izah: Coptic Texts from Deir el Bala'izah in Upper Egypt, 2 volumes, London 1954. The Greek texts are Nos. 2, 29, 123, 130, 154, 181, 203, 297, 298, 299, 300, 315, 355, 356, 388. No. 2 is parchment and the rest papyri. These texts should be referred to as P.Bala'izah.
